

Chef – The Royal Logistic Corps Professional Memberships – Craft Guild of Chefs

Background

Established in 1965 as a Guild of the Cookery and Food Association, the Craft Guild of Chefs has developed into the leading Chefs' Association in the UK and has many members worldwide. Our members come from all aspects of the foodservice and hospitality sectors working in a wide variety of positions from students and trainees to top management. No other association boasts such a broad and experienced membership.

Aim

To inspire chefs to want to become members as innovative and creative professionals, connecting with all sectors of industry, establishing rewarding careers.

The objectives of the Craft Guild of Chefs are:

- Increase of standards within professional cooking
- Develop careers and the prospects for members
- Develop the knowledge, skills and ability of members
- Promote craft skills through UK and International competition
- Industry recognition through better education and promotion.
- Promote and Innovate to support the use of British and European produce.

Benefits

The Craft Guild of Chefs offers extensive benefits to its members. These range from discounts with suppliers, access to competitions and a wide range of formal networking opportunities as well as social events. The Craft Guild of Chefs are also a partner of the Army Catering Training Trust who deliver apprenticeship assessment expertise to the Army.

Membership

All RLC Chefs, upon conclusion of trade training, are funded for 1 year of student membership to the Craft Guild of Chefs. Promotion of membership is encouraged throughout an RLC chefs' career.
